

Renovations at Cornthwaite Agricultural are finally complete!

OVER the last 12 months, we have been redeveloping the yard as well as the Service and Parts Departments at Cornthwaite Agricultural. The Open Day on Wednesday 14th April is the official launch of our new and improved depot and I do hope you visit us to look around and see what changes we have made. I realise that the renovations have caused both staff and customers some inconvenience and whilst I apologise for this and thank you for your tolerance, I hope you will consider it worthwhile once you see the end result. We certainly do.

The Service Department:

We have built a new workshop increasing the number of service bays available for use. Security fences and gates have been installed to completely enclose the area behind the workshop - to ensure security of tractors and machines in for service and repair. The workshop will be open for you to view during the Open Day.

Side and rear views of the newly built workshop

Area to the rear of the workshop, newly concreted and enclosed by security gates

Inside the new section of the workshop

The Parts Department

The original showroom has been doubled in size and totally revamped. We have moved all the parts storage and racking to a new area which has enabled us to expand the display areas within the showroom.

We have installed a new counter, a new ceiling, new flooring, new lighting, a complimentary drinks area and purpose built display units and shelving as well as increased our product ranges and stock levels to hopefully ensure your visit to us is both pleasant and productive

Previous Showroom

The extended showroom area at brewtime!

The showroom as we start to re-stock it

The Yard

The addition of some land bordering the yard has enabled us to extend and utilise our outside space more efficiently. We have moved the main entrance to the yard, making it easier and safer for wagons to come in and out, and have recovered the whole yard – concrete behind the workshop and tarmac in front and to the side of the buildings.

Side of the yard

Previous machinery storage area to the side of the building

Laying tarmac

Covered in tarmac, awaiting the return of the machines

Front of the yard

The previous area to the front

The same area as it is now

Installing the new main entrance

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all our excellent staff for taking all the developments in their stride, it couldn't have been done without them.

Stuart Cornthwaite